CONKLING ON THE ADMINISTRATION.

We publish to day the chief points of an interview between Senator Conkling and a correspondent of the New York World, in relation to the Electoral Commission and the "bargain and sale." The interview is alleged to have taken place at Utica, New York, Senator Conkling's home. Conkling being exceedingly bitter against the Administration, it was no trouble for him to unbosom himself and gave the worst side to the story. He claims to know all about the history of the Electoral Commission, and does not doubt that there was some kind of a bargain between the friends of Nicholls and Hayes, and that Senator Matthews and Secretary Sherman were privy to it. He predicts that when all the facts are known, which he says will not be far in the future, the whole country will be appalled by the dishonor of the Administration. He don't say in what particular the President is guilty of disgraceful conduct, neither does he satisfy the public that what he says are facts. He gives vent to his feelings of disappointment and hate by making the gravest charges possible against the Administration, and reiterate, that when "the whole truth is known it will sink the Administration, President and all, to the lowest depths of infamy" How Conkling came into the possession of the facts that during the pendency of the electoral trouble in Louisiana, there was between Hayes and a few prominent Republicans, and several of the leading Democrats, an infamous scheme being secretly worked out to steal the presidency for Tilden, he does not state. Who the parties were on both sides he does not even intimate, and at what time the secret was broken into his ears he refuses to give any information. He pictures a terrible state of affairs while these nefarious negotiations were going on. General Studman had 70,000 enrolled and assigned to regiments, for the purpose of seating Tilden, to say nothing of Watterson's famous 100,000. War was imminent. The institutions of the country were in danger. The nation was trembling in fear. The President was massing the army about Washington. General Grant was dumbfounded, and knew not what to do, and all the while Mr. Hayes, then in Ohio, was intriguing with Southern Democratic members of Congress to beat Tilden out of the Presidency.

How much truth there is in all these statements, we do not know. Our faith in Conkling to tell a straight story, is not great. The New York Senator is just now laboring under the weight of disappointment and he feels bitterly the keen sting of blasted hopes. He also pines over the loss of political power, and that has produced liver complaint, and consequent ill-temper and despondency. He is a man of considerable power, an eminent lawyer and a distinguished debater. But the President's farcical civil service policy which has been a shame to the Administration in very many cases, has robbed Senator Conkling of the influence he once wielded so far as appointments are concerned. For this reason he feels hostile to the President, and does not hesitate to give the Administration the worst possible character. We cannot believe there is any foundation for the charges Senator Conkling makes. If he is acquainted with these "facts," why haven't they reached the Democratic leaders, who are as hostile to the President as Senator Conkling, and who would not hesitate, did they know the facts, to take such steps as would expose the "infamy of the Administration."

THE STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES.

The State Board of Charities and Reform held a meeting in Milwaukee this week, at which a new Secretary to the Board was elected. Mr. T. W. Haight, of Waukesha, has filled that position for two years past, and we presumed gave entire satisfaction. He is a gentleman of scholarly attainments, of a practical turn of mind, and for ought we knew, gave eminenent satisfaction to the Board. It seems, however, that differences of opinion arose as to the correctness of the reports, and to avoid any further dispute or trouble, he declined to serve any longer, and Mr. Theodore D. Knouse, Watertown, was elected to fill the position. He is very well known throughout the State from his long and prominent connection with the temperance work. For several years he has been Grand Worthy Chief of the Order of Good Templars. Those who know him best speak in the highest terms of his worth and his ability for the important position to which he has been elected.

The funeral of Tweed, the great Democratic leader and Tammany Chief, was held on Wednesday. It was a singular funeral. A few years ago Tweed held almost supreme power in New York, and gloated in riches. He was then a great party leader, and if not respected, he was feared, and his wealth and political position gave him an influence not equalled by any man in New York. Seven years after his first arrest he died in prison. His family were scattered far and near. Only one member—a daughter—was present when the last rites were performed. The name of Tweed was so disgraced that when his remains lay in his daughter's house, the public were not allowed to enter, and when the modest hearse bore them to Greenwood cemetery, not more than a dozen carriages followed. The mighty—not the great—has fallen, and justice has been revenged.

The Congressional elections next Fall will be of the utmost importance. The people have got all they want of a Confederate Congress, and will make a change. The Indianapolis Journal says that "if the Republicans hold the districts they now have, and carry fourteen districts now represented by Democrats, they will have a majority of one in the House of Representatives. We believe they will do this and better. The country is getting very tired of the Democracy. It is medicine of which a little goes a great way." Wisconsin will make one of the fourteen districts Republican.

Jim Knight, Confederate Field's right hand man, and Wisconsin's "crippled soldier" who served his country awhile on horseback in the quartermaster's department, once ran for office in La Fayette county. He wanted to make sure of the Irish vote, and to make it appear that so far as nationality was concerned, he was related to that class of voters which were quite numerous in La Fayette, he had it noised abroad in some localities where it would do the most good, that his name was McKnight. Jim denied this, but the charge against him was pretty well founded.

We have at last got a pretty positive opinion from the State Journal on Howe's speech, which is, "that it was not a prudent speech to make at this time; that there was not sufficient occasion for its utterance; that, not being necessary, it was ill-timed and calculated to disrupt, rather than harmonize, the Republican party, a thing that seems to us so very essential at this time,—not for the sake of party, merely—but for the welfare of the country." There is nothing like speaking right out in meeting, and it is encouraging to hear the Journal come down to business.

We have received a copy of the letter written by George C. Gorham, Secretary to the United States Senate, to the Washington Republican. He says "it would be better to affirm Republican doctrine and denounce crimes of the enemy than it would to arraign the administration for any acts committed or omitted. He thought Republicans ought to affirm the righteousness and constitutionality of the reconstruction policy, and to insist that its failure was due to the defiance of law by Southern Democrats, and not to the wickedness of Southern Republicans."

The power of the Democrats in Milwaukee is fast waning. They haven't got a working majority in their Council. On Tuesday, George Paschen, a Republican, was elected City Clerk by the Council. Milwaukee is fast passing from under the control of the Bourbons.

The question next fall will be a Republican Congress and and economical Administration; or a Confederate Congress and the danger of allowing the 300 million dollars rebel claims. The question is a grave one, and will be the vital issue in the campaign.

The Inter-Ocean wants Sherman to grapple the bull by the horns and resume specie payments now, or the moment that Congress passes the Senate bill. It thinks delay is dangerous, and the end may as well be reached now as any time.

The Milwaukee Sentinel thinks that if Secretary Sherman keeps on as well as he has begun with the finances of the country he will be the dark horse in 1880. Whatever he may be in 1880, he is certainly the father of resumption in 1878.

Another of those scandals which burdens the Churches and shakes up society, comes from Detroit, particulars of which will be found in these columns. The affair is disgraceful, and coming from the source it does, is sickening.

It is somewhat humiliating that a public man should be compelled three weeks after he makes a speech in Congress, to explain his position and why he made the speech. Public sentiment makes a man get down on his marrow-bone.

Yesterday (Wednesday) the Milwaukee warehouses were stored with 587,721 bushels of wheat; 4,583 bushels of corn; 66,468 bushels of oats; 52,072 bushels of rye and 404,131 bushels of barley.

If Conkling learns in the course of two of three weeks, which he certainly will, that his interview does not set well on the public stomach, he will make a personal explanation.

The Supreme Court of this State met today, and Associate Justices Orton and Taylor took their seats, having received certificates of election from the Secretary of State.

There is cheering news from Washington. The Senate has passed a concurrent resolution to adjourn on the 10th of June. The earlier the better.

There are no new developments growing out of the Beecher-Tilton scandal. Both gentlemen are on lecturing tours, and that is bad for gossipers.

Governor Smith has appointed Robert Buckstoff, of Oshkosh, timber inspector of district No. 12, vice W. E. Hanson, term expired.

The Democracy in the House are not in favor of adjourning on the on the 10th of June. They want a longer time at the crib.

Gold is still begging at 100⅜.

Secretary Sherman's Contract.

New York Tribune.

Fifty millions is a large sum. But Secretary Sherman has not only secured the payment of $50,000,000 in gold to the treasury, He has taken the best possible course to prevent an outgo of $5,000,000 a week in paymeot for bonds returned from Europe. The bankers with whom his latest contract was made are those whose rates in a large degree control foreign exchange. They undertake to make a market for United States bonds, and therefore undertake to make the exchange such that bonds in large amount cannot be imported. No one doubts their power, when they have $50,000,000 of United States 4½ per cents to sell. The quick change in the price of bonds yesterday is proof that their power is admitted in Europe as well as in this country. They can stop, and it now becomes their interest to stop, the shipment of bonds from Europe, and in this point of view the contract made by the Secretary on Thursday was incomparably more advantageous to the country than any that it was possible to make with the associated banks of this city. It is the general opinion that, apart from this consideration, Secretary Sherman made a remarkably good bargain for the government.

THE EAST.

Warlike Measures Continue—Little Hope of Peace—A Direct Menace to Russia.

LONDON, April 18—6 a. m.—A dispatch of native troops from India to Malta is one of the most ominous steps yet taken by the Government. It is claimed to be only a precautionary measure, but there is no doubt that Europe will regard it as a direct menace to Russia. The number of troops is insignificant,—about 7,000,—but it is on that account ridiculous to call the movement precautionary. No alarm would have been created had 7,000 English troops been sent there, for, in the present situation, it would be not unreasonable that a strong force should be held in readiness at Malta.

The significance of this order consists in the fact that only native troops are to go. It is equivalent to a notification to Russia that England is able and ready to draw a large army from her Indian dependencies for active operations in Europe. Not only does England thus boast of her capacity to meet the Russians with nearly an equal force in Europe, but she makes light of Russia's designs upon India. This movement of Indian troops is undoubtedly one of those steps which Lord Derby said had been the principal cause of his resignation, and it is very significant that such decisive action should have been kept secret until Parliament was no longer sitting.

Ahmed Vefyk Pash, Turkish Prime Minister, has at last resigned, though no appointment to his place has been made. He is England's warmest friend in the Turkish Government, and, should his retirement be final, it is probable that Russian influence will heseafter be paramount in Constantinople.

There are many rumors as to the possibility of a preliminary conference convening, but, in view of the determination of both England and Russia to maintain their present position, there can be little hope of such a device leading to any satisfactory result.

LONDON, April 18.—A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs: "The situation is unaltered. The conciliatory action of Germany continues, but so far without result. The difference in regard to submitting the whole treaty is declared to offer an insuperable obstacle to further negotiations in the direction hitherto followed. I am assured on good authority that Russia would consent to some new departure, such as taking the treaties of 1856 and 1871 as the basis of discussion.

The organ of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs has the following remarks in this sense: "The real aim of the plenipotentiaries would be to prevent a conflagration and regulate the East after events, the importance of which cannot be contested. We care little about the way of getting into the congress, provided the door is large enough to admit all without any one having to stoop."

McCOSKREY.

Another Great Scandal—The Episcopal Bishop of Michigan Resigns His Bishopric For a Trip to Europe—Fannie Richards the Cause.

DETROIT, April 17—Samuel Allan McCoskrey, Bishop of Michigan since 1836, and 74 years of age, is the hero of the latest church scandal. About a month ago the Episcopalians, and the community in general, were surprised to learn that he had suddenly, and apparently without cause, resigned his high charge, and was about to go to Europe. The report was at first discredited, and when confirmed, gave rise to a multitude of rumors, among them that he had in some way been guilty of unclerical and unbishoprical conduct. There were only two or three men who were at all positive as to the real reason of the resignation, and they maintained an ominous silence. The newspapers of Detroit were deluded by false or evasive statements, and until the last forty-eight hours it seemed that the outside world would be effectually kept out of the secret.

It was about two weeks ago that a member of the Bishop's church overheard a conversation between two men, which indicated that the talkers were either maliciously lying, or that they were cognizant of a great sin on the part of the Bishop. He began a quiet investigation, and in the end found a man who had in his possession a packet of letters addressed to a young lady named Fanny Richards, and signed by the spiritual head of the diocese. The letters had originally been given by the girl to George McConnell, a printer of Detroit, who had left them for safe keeping with a farmer in a small town near that city. The farmer had been inspired by curiosity to read them, and it was his chance conversation with a friend that led to the exposure. The letters were obtained without great difficulty from the possessor, and with these in their hands the Vestrymen confronted the printer, McConnell, who, to protect himself from the charge of forgery, told how he had obtained them. He declared that he had been for some years criminally intimate with the girl Richards, and that he had been aware for a long time of her liaison with the Bishop; that he had at times been exceedingly jealous of the dignity of the church, and had often quarreled with the girl on that account; that she had confessed to him her relations with the Bishop; and that on one occasion she had given him the letters aforementioned. This step having been reached, the next thing in order for the Committee was to call upon the Bishop for an explanation. A visit was accordingly paid him, the charge made and the letters produced. It was all so unexpected that he was unable to cover his confusion, and, after several futile attempts at evasion, broke completely down and confessed himself a sinner. He acknowledged the genuineness of several of the letters, although several others he denied having written.

ADJOURNMENT.

Proceedings of the House on the Senate Resolution to Adjourn on the 10th of June.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—There was a very fair test vote in the House to-day on the tariff revision. The Senate passed a unanimous resolution to adjourn Congress sine die on the 10th of June. When it got over to the House there was a disposition on the Republican side to consider and dispose of it at once, but Mr. Wood and the majority of the Democrats opposed. Mr Wood asked its reference to the Committee on Ways and Means, but this motion was defeated by a vote of 108 to 120. Three Republicans, Burchard and Cannon, of Illinois, and Phillips, of Kansas, voted with the Democrats to prolong the session, and the following Democrats voted with the Republicans to adjourn on the 10th of June: Hart, Beebe, Bliss and Wills, of New York; Clymer, Bridges, Mackey, Reilley, and Turner, of Pennsylvania; Haddenberg, Cutler, and Ross, of New Jersey; Phillips, of Connecticut; Bouck and Lynde of Wisconsin; Dickey and Finley, of Ohio; Morse, of Massachusetts; Fuller of Indiana; Sparks, of Illinois; Walsh, of Maryland; Luttrell, of California; Hatcher, of Missouri. When the House refused to send the resolution to the committee, the Democrats commenced to filibuster so as to prevent the adoption of the resolution until they consider it in party caucus, and succeeded.

DENIED.

Senator Conkling Denies the Interview Published this Morning and Attributed to Him.

WASHINGTON, April 17—The Conkling interview, as published this morning, occasioned much comment everywhere, particularly in Congressional circles. The Senator, in reply to an inquiry by a reporter as to the correctness of the experiences attributed to him, said: "You are at liberty to state that I cannot recall any circumstance within the past few months to warrant any such interview, as I learn has been attributed to me, and feel perfectly sure that if there should turn out to be some plausibility in portions of it, some one to me unknown just at present has been guilty of betraying a private conversation."

DYING DOWN.

The Confession of Mrs. Tilton Creates Little or no Sensation in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The fears entertained, when Mrs. Tilton's confession was made public, that the unsavory details of the old scandal would be revived, are not likely to be realized, for public interest in the case has perceptibly weakened. Beecher and Tilton are still away, and all attempts on the part of representatives of the press to communicate with either Mrs. Tilton or her mother, Mrs. Morse, have been unavailing. Colonel Beecher, Henry Ward's eldest son, said yesterday that his father would certainly be at home in time for the Friday evening prayer meeting. When asked for a copy of the letter sent to his father on Tuesday, in behalf of Mrs. Tilton, informing him that she had not intended to publish the confession until he had been given twenty-four hours' notice, Colonel Beecher said such a letter had been received, but he had turned it over to Mr. Shearman The letter, he said, was not written by Mrs. Tilton herself, but he would not divulge the name of the person who did write it. Mr. Shearman was applied to, and questioned in regard to the letter, and also concerning the one written by Mrs. Tilton to Mrs. Raymond, as well as those written by Mrs. Morse to Mr. Beecher after he had refused to accede to her demand for money for the support of Mrs. Tilton. When asked if any such demands had been made, Mr. Shearman unhesitatingly replied in the affirmative.

WISCONSIN MATTERS.

A Milwaukeean Convicted of Crookedness—The Ashland Counterfeiter—Gored by a Vicious Cow—Fatal Accident near Oshkosh—Sudden Death of an Old Man at Madison.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 17—Christian Salentine, rectifier and distiller, was convicted in the United States Court to-day of crookedness at the expense of the Government. A stay of proceedings was granted to admit a motion for a new trial.

MADISON, Wis., April 17—L. Ozander, who was arrested at Ashland, Wisconsin, a couple of days ago for attempting to procure counterfeit money through the mails, was discharged from custody to-day, giving bonds of $500 to appear at the June term of court. Mr. Ozander is a reputable butcher of Ashland, and was drawn into the scheme by more guilty parties. The case will be settled by friends.

WATERTOWN, Wis., April 17—To-day a vicious cow gored a 14-year-old son of Michael Killian in a terrible manner, penetrating his neck with her horns. It is doubtful if the boy recovers.

OSHKOSH, April 17—A man named Abe Holland, of this city, was struck on the head by the cowcatcher of the 4 o'clock north bound freight engine, three miles south of this city, this afternoon, and his skull was so terribly crushed that he cannot possibly recover. He was subject to epileptic fits, and is supposed to have fallen in one of them on the track. The engineer discovered the man too late to reverse the engine, and no blame appears to be attached to him.

MADISON, April 17.—Yesterday afternoon a man named Schmidz, 76 years of age, was out hoeing in a field on a farm belonging to his brother-in-law, J. G. Dengel, near Rodermund's Brewery, on the road to the State Insane Hospital. He was suddenly taken with a fit of apoplexy and dropped dead at his work. A party of Chicago gentlemen, representing iron works in that city, who had been present at the opening of bids in the Executive Chamber, and were now riding out to the asylum, saw him lying in the field and got out of their buggy to assist him, thinking some bad accident had happened. Schmidtz was found to be stone dead. He had been in good health for some time past.

CONKLING'S GRUMBLE.

It is Evident that He Doesn't Like the President—A Series of Charges.

By dispatch from New York it is announced that the World will publish to-day, Wednesday, an interview with Senator Conkling. Following is a portion of the interesting talk:

Conkling then goes on to review at length the history of the electoral commission. He says that the country was in actual danger; that "the point of peril was not in the south but in the west. It was understood that the Republican leaders had determined to have Vice President Ferry count the votes at all hazards and declare Hayes elected and the west was determined on resistance. It was to be no child's play in that section. General Steedman had 70,000 men enrolled, and assigned to regiments, for the purpose of seating Tilden in office in case Vice President Ferry carried out his proposed programme. These things are true. President Grant was at his wit's end. He confessed to me that he did not know what to do."

He says further that Grant was gathering some troops near Washington, but he did not know how far he could depend on them. General Sherman told him that in case of trouble the sympathies of a large majority of the officers and soldiers of the regular army would be with Tilden and that the army must not be taken into consideration as a dependence in any such crisis. From these facts and from what was threatened and prophesied publicly in those days you can imagine how gloomy the outlook was. In the Republican councils the President asked my advice and I frankly told him that I did not believe that Vice President Ferry had any power to declare the vote, but could merely act in a clerical capacity to open the envelopes and lay the votes of the electoral college before the joint convention of the two houses for their decision. I may as well state here that when a certain senator came to me and said it was proposed to make me President of the Senate in Ferry's place so that the thing should not miss fire, I frankly told him that I could not accept the position, and that by my interpretation of the Constitution I should be compelled to rule exactly opposite to the wishes of himself and friends. That will perhaps explain the story that is told about me, and while we are on the subject, let me say that I suggested subsequently that there was no constitutional reason why Grant should not be elected President of the Senate if they wanted a strong man there, though I saw no necessity for any such change. Of course I knew there was no likelihood of such a choice, and that Grant simply desired to see his successor peacefully inaugurated and to enjoy a long vacation afterwards."

Conkling says that he then suggested to President Grant the idea of the commission and that the latter embraced it heartily. He gives an account of the various interviews with the President and General Sherman, the difficulties that the advocates of the plan met with, and then, in particular detail, why he was convinced that Hayes, then in Ohio, was intriguing with the southern Democratic members of Congress. Speaking of the final vote, he says: "I am frank to say that I thought then there was something not exactly straight about that Louisiana business, but now I believe that when the whole truth is known it will sink the administration, President and all, to the lowest depths of infamy."

"You think, then, Senator, that the President is wholly in the hands of the Southern Democrats."

"I am sure of it," said Senator Conkling.

Mr. Conkling then said there had been no reform under Hayes, not even in the civil service, and he said his appointments were the worst ever made. If Mr. Hayes should send in a message on civil service reform, a list of some of these appointments will be published, and it will make such an astounding commentary upon the President's work as would disconcert a more philosophical cabinet than that in which Evarts and Schurz figure as reformers.

Anecdote of Washington and Jefferson.

A Cleveland correspondent of the Chicago Tribune sends that paper the following extract from a letter by the late Francis Lieber: "An incident of more than usual interest occured to-day, just after the class in constitutional law was dismissed, at the university. I had been lecturing upon the advantages of the bicameral system, had dismissed the class, and was about to leave the room when a young man, whom I knew had taken instructions under Laboulaye, in Paris, approached me and said that what I had urged with regard to that bi-cameral system remined him of a story which he had heard Laboulaye relate. I was interested, of course, and, as the class gathered around, he proceeded with the following: Laboulaye said, in one of his lectures, that Jefferson, who had become so completely inbued with French ideas as even to admit the uni-cameral system of legislation, one day visited Washington at Mt. Vernon, and in the course of the conversation that ensued, the comparative excellence of the two systems came up for consideration. After considerable had been said on both sides, finally, at the teatable. Washington, turning sharply to Jefferson, said:

"You, sir, have just demonstrated the superior excellence of the bi-cameral system, by your own hand."

"I! How is that?" said Jefferson, not a little surprised.

"You have poured your tea from your cup out into the saucer to cool. We want the bi-cameral system to cool things. A measure originates in one house, and in heat is passed. The other house will serve as a wonderful cooler; and by the time it is debated and modified by various amendments there, it is much more likely to become an equitable law. No, we can't get along without the saucer in our system."

Jefferson, of course, saw that a point had been made against his argument; but whether he was frank enough to say so, the story-teller did not relate."

A Romance of Michigan and Kansas.

From the Beloit, (Kan.) Gazette.

Some twelve years ago, in the backwoods of Michigan, a young man by the name of Donovan married a young lady, and for a while all went well, but soon family cares began to gall and fret him, and he struck out for the West, leaving his wife to care for herself and one child. For five years he wandered about, and finally married again and settled in the southern part of this county. From this marriage three children were born, but last fall the woman sickened and died, leaving him and his little children alone in his prairie home. In the meantime his first and real wife in Michigan, after waiting five years for him to return, concluded him to be dead, and also married again, and last winter started West with her family of four children, one being the child of the first marriage. By some unknown fatality, they came to this country, and without knowing it settled within one-half mile of Donovan, the woman's real husband. It was not long before the woman and her truant husband met, much to the astonishment of each other, and now the two families are living in one house, the woman and her last husband keeping house and caring for her former husband's children.

Lake Michigan has its Grace Darling, and her father and brothers are as brave and heroic as she is herself. Sanford W. Morgan is keeper of the life-saving station at Grand Point au Sable, Michigan, and after the close of navigation he allows the crew to go away for the winter, but remains on the ground with his daughter and his sons. At daylight on March 23, during one of the most violent gales of the season, with the sea so boisterous that it was covered with foam, a fishing boat was discovered about three miles off shore, in distress, by Miss Edith. Quickly giving the alarm to her father and two brothers, she urged them to go, volunteering to take an oar herself to assist the crew. It seemed as though a boat could not possibly live in the mighty waves, but one was launched, and, after a pull of two hours, with seas breaking over the small boat and threatening its destruction and the loss of those on board, they succeeded in reaching the wreck, to find that one of the crew who had been clinging to the side of the vessel had become exhausted, and, letting go his hold, had been drowned. Another sailor, however, was rescued as he was about to give up, and was taken ashore. Nor was this the first time that the brave young girl had ventured on an errand to save.—New York Tribune.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M

The Eastern Quesstion.

The following elucidation of the great "Eastern Question and its Relation to the United States" was read a year ago as an essay in a literary society at Ottawa, Illinois, by Mr. T. N. Treat, a law student, and who is well known in Janesville. In the light of occurrences since then it shows the youthful writer to have had an uncommonly clear comprehension of his very ponderous subject:

People, not read in history, imagine that Russia's sole object is to free the Christian subjects of the Porte. This is an object, but not the main one. Her chref aim is to push her boundaries to the Mediterranean, and build herself up as a great commercial state. This would develop her mighty resources and pave the way to a realization of the ultimate object of her ambition, to become mistress of the Eastern continent. For two centuries she has had a splendid career of conquest. Her first step in every instance is, to secretly foment civil strife in the coveted country; next, to take sides with the weaker party, always prefacing a declaration of war with a preamble to the effect that the interests of humanity compel her to interfere. The next step is to take the territory under her protection. The fourth and last is, to incorporate it as a part of her empire.

In this way she got possession of Poland and acquired enormous territories in Asia She now seeks to carry out the same plan with respect to Turkey. She has lately taken measures to strengthen her empire. She has built a network of railroads for the transportation of troops and war materials. By conquering the Circassians she has pushed her boundaries to Turkey's Asiatic frontier. Extensive fortifications now strengthen her most exposed points, and the emancipation act of 1863 transformed her millions of serfs into freedom.

Russia is in a bad financial condition and Poland threatens to rise. But she has at the head of government shrewd statesmen, masters of diplomacy and finance. She will obtain the sinews of war though she be compelled to issue bonds at fifty cents on the dollar, and put a heavy mortgage on her magnificent resources. The threatened Polish insurrection will tend to ally Germany and Austria with Russia. The frequent conferences between the emperors of these countries would seem to indicate a common understanding as to what alterations shall be made in the map o Europe. But Austria's position is doubtful. If she sides against Russia, dismemberment is threatened; it would be a fitting retribution, if she who joined hands with Russia and Prussia in the seizure of Poland, should be destroyed by her partner in crime. By joining Russia she will obtain a share in the spoils, and postpone her own dissolution. The infamous seizure of Hungary gathered within her boundaries discordant elements. Of her 35,000,000, ten millions are German. The rest are divided into two classes, the Slav and the Magyar. The former is attached to Russia, being of the same race and religion. The latter favors Turkey.

Turkey partitioned, and a common frontier established between Russia and Austria, it will not be difficult for her neighbors to excite an insurrection among the different races of her empire. Then assailed within and without, that once proud structure will fall, and Austria be blotted out of the map of Europe.

England has communicated to Russia her disapproval of the invasion of Turkey, and should Russian armies environ the gates of the Black Sea, she will speak at the cannon's mouth. France, eager to avenge Sedan and regain Alsace and Lorraine, will be her ally.

Europe, and perhaps one-half of Asia, will become an immense battle field in which 10,000,000 men armed with every facility that modern science can furnish will engage in scenes of carnage unparalleled in the history of 6,000 years.

During the late rebellion our carrying trade was practically annihilated, England enriching herself at our expense. If she becomes involved, we shall regain our lost prestige as the second commercial State of the globe, and perhaps even supplant her.

In every quarter of Europe enormous armies are being raised, equipped and drilled. In all her great naval yards the clang of the hammer is heard night and day, and the work of forging engines of death is pushed forward with the greatest dispatch. As for us, with our political difficulties amicably adjusted, and a man placed in the presidential chair whose talents as a peacemaker are unrivalled; with the surrender of the Indian tribes, and a better feeling in the South, we may hope for the future. So profound is the conviction of permanent peace, that the reduction of our army from 25,000 to 10,000 is strongly advocated. The reduction in the number and salaries of government employes, and reforms in the civil service, indicate a determination to reduce the expenditures of government to the lowest possible figure.

The powerful stimulus of an European war will quicken the sluggish currents of business. Our railroads and canals, those great arteries of civilization, pulsating with the swift current of trade and commerce, will seaward bear the products of the farm and workshop. No more shall we behold multitudes of workmen turned loose to beg, steal or starve. Every available man will be required to aid in the production and transportation of the enormous supplies of food, clothing and material of war which Europe will purchase of us.

From Europe in return shall flow back the streams of gold which she has been draining from us during the past few years. An enormous balance of trade will soon be in our favor. Ere long the oppressed poor of Europe will seek relief from war and grinding taxation by emigration to our shores, and our western wilds will be settled by an army of industrious colonists, who will develope their gigantic resources and increase our national strength.

The liquidation of our national debt, which has been steadily progressing during these years of depression, will now be rapidly accelerated, and before the present generation shall pass away our country shall be free from debt. T. N. TREAT.

The Free Press tells how a Detroit man explained the metric system to his wife. "Under the metric system," said he, "you write to your father in Wisconsin for the money to buy your new dress. The money comes, you take half of it and buy me a pair of pants, and then you use the rest in purchasing fifty-cent dress goods. It is a very good measure, very good," She said that no metric system should ever come into that house.

CATARRH

A PHYSICIAN'S TESTIMONY.

30 Years a Physician. 12 Years a Sufferer. Tried Regular Remedies. Tried Patent Medicines. Permanently cured by

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER,—Sirs: I have practised medicine for thirty years, and have been a sufferer myself for twelve years with Catarrh in the nasal passages, fauces and larynx. I have used everything in the materia medica without any permanent relief, until finally I was induced to try a patent medicine (something that we allopathists are very loth to do). I tried ——— and divers others until I got hold of yours. I followed the directions to the letter, and am happy to say have had a permanent cure. Your RADICAL CURE is certainly a happy combination for the cure of that most unpleasant and dangerous of diseases.

Yours, respectfully,
D. W. GRAY, M. D.,
Of Dr. D. W. Gray & Son, Physicians and Druggists, Muscatine, Iowa.

MUSCATINE, IOWA, March 27, 1877.

The value of this remedy must not be overlooked in the cure of those

SYMPATHETIC DISEASES,

Affections of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes which in many cases accompany a severe case of Catarrh. The inflamed and diseased condition of the mucous membrane is the cause of all these troubles; and until the system has been brought properly under the influence of the RADICAL CURE, perfect freedom from them cannot be reasonably expected.

It is but three years since SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE was placed before the public, but in that short time it has found its way from Maine to California, and is everywhere acknowledged by druggists and physicians to be the most successful preparation for the thorough treatment of Catarrh ever compounded. The fact will be deemed of more importance when it is coupled with the statement that within five years over 250 different remedies for Catarrh have been placed on sale, and to-day, with one or two exceptions, their names cannot be recalled by the best-informed druggist. Advertising may succeed in forcing a few sales, but, unless the remedy possess undoubted specific medical properties, it is absolutely certain to fall into merited obscurity.

Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, with full directions for its use in all cases. Price $1.00. Sold by all wholesale and retail druggists and dealers throughout the United States and Canadas. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

THE GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1878.

The Soft Damask on a Drummer's Cheek.

From the St. Louis Globe.

He was a man with a triangular smile, a cold steel-gray eye, and a face as cleanly shaven as a priest. He sat down at the end of the dinner table, tucked a napkin under his chin, smiled patronizingly upon the bowing waiter, and said:

"Bring me a good tony dinner, Thomas. No soup to-day—thanks."

"Yes, sah."

"Plenty of substantials—turkey, second joint, remember."

"Yes, sah."

"With a dish of cranberry sauce."

"Yes, sah."

"See that the vegetables are all warm."

"Yes sah."

"And Thomas," calling him back, "the roast beef must be rare and fat—don't forget."

"Yes, sah—yes, sah."

Then he stroked his face with the air of a man on the best of terms with himself, dipped a lump of sugar into his glass of water, crushed it into his mouth, dropped back into a graceful attitude, and occupied himself in watching the other guests until the waiter returned with his dinner heaped upon a tray.

"Thomas," he said, as the waiter ranged the dishes in a semi-circle before him, "you must do better if you expect me to remember you, as I'm in the habit of doing. The last time I was here—the day Senator Matthews was with me—you brought us a dinner good enough for a king. But this is shabby, Thomas—very shabby, after the way I've always looked after you,"—tapping his breast pocket significantly. "The baked oysters on the half-shell are missing, Thomas. I don't see any lobster salad or wine jelly. You must use better taste, or I shall have to wade through the bill of fare myself, Thomas, and I have such a headache I don't like to do it. This beef seems cooked to a crisp, and looks tough as finance. Take it all away, Thomas, and try again. See if you can't do justice to your reputation. Remember I am ill, Thomas, and don't be sparing of the dainties. You know my weakness—touch the palate in the right spot, and it's the same thing as putting your hand in my pocket," with a wink that opened the darkey's face from ear to ear.

"Yes, sah—yes, sah. Git it right dis time, gen'l. Seegde mistake—took ye fo' Gov'neh Williams—beg pardon, sah—beg pardon—didn't see ye fa'h in de face. We all gits 'fused sometimes—so many gemmen comin'."

And the waiter, with many apologies, lavished his best bows upon the self-assertive stranger as he gathered up the dishes with great alacrity. In a few moments he returned with the choicest viands the house afforded, and this time met with such unmistakable evidence of approval that he stepped over to a brother waiter and informed him in an exultant whisper that he had just toddered a Member of the Cabinet with the best of satisfaction, and would get a five-dollar fee sure. The other offered him a dollar for his chance, and lost his friendship from that moment.

"Thomas."

"Yes, sah."

The waiter was bowing at his side in an instant, and received the order for desert which he proceeded to execute with the utmost dispatch, not forgetting to include a good display of rare delicacies, as his own voluntary tribute to greatness.

With folded arms he took his position behind the chair of the stranger, and waited impatiently for the moment when he should see something glitter as it was slyly slipped under the edge of the plate—for he felt that a member of the cabinet could not consistently swerve from the golden standard.

"Thomas."

"Yes, sah."

"These figs have been exposed to the air for some time."

"Yes, sah."

"Bring me some from a fresh box, please. My stomach is very delicate to-day."

"Yes, sah."

The eye of the stranger watched the retreating form of the sable child of hope until it passed through the door, and then the man arose and hastily left the room. Gentle reader, would you know who it was that so basely abused the confidence of the susceptible son of Ham? You shall—it was a Chicago drummer.

Taylor Took it "Straight."

New York Herald April 12.

When Mr. Bayard Taylor, the new minister to Germany, went on board the Hamburg steamer at noon yesterday, he was met upon the deck by Mark Twain, who was to be a fellow passenger, Mark pulled the peak of his black alpaca traveling cap down over his eyes, gazed a minute on Mr. Taylor's worn-looking countenance, and drawled out—

"Bayard, you look tired,"

"I am utterly fatigued, Sam; I didn't get any sleep last night. I begged the boys to stop this reception business, but they kept it up all night and they were such jolly fellows that I could not leave them. But you look fresh yourself."

"Wasl," said the author of "Innocents Abroad," I have been railroading for two weeks steadily."

"Pshaw," returned the envoy extraodinary to the German Empire, "that's nothing; I have been dining and drinking every night for two weeks."

"You can't set off my hardships with that," answered Mark, "for besides railroading I have been mixing my drinks, while you have been taking yours straight."

"Straight, straight," muttered the distinguished journalist, poet and traveler, reflectively, "what's that?"

"Why, drink straight when you stick to one thing," said Mark, "whether it be coffee or aquafortis."

Mr. Taylor was thoughtful for a moment, as if pondering whether the word "straight" would form a desirable addition to his diplomatic vocabulary, then he turned aside, adjusted his glasses and gave some directions as to the disposal of his trunks. Another moment and Murat Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, was shaking hands with the two voyagers.

Helen's Other Baby.

Keokuk Constitution.

"What makes that noise?" said a little boy on the train recently. "The cars," answered his mother. "What for?" "Because they are moving." "What are they moving for?" "The engine makes them." "What engine?" "The engine in front." "What's it in front for?" "To pull the train." "What train?" "This one." "This one." "This car?" repeated the youngster, pointing to the one in which they sat. "Yes." "What do they pull it for?" "Oh be still; you are a nuisance." "What is a nuisance?" "A boy who asks too many questions." "Whose boy?" "My boy." "What questions?" The conductor came through just then and took up the tickets, and the train pulled up to the station before we could get all of the conversation. The last we heard as the lady jerked the youngster off the platform, was: "What conductor?"

Something Concerning A Small Boy.

According to the best scientific authority, the small boy becomes a boy at the age of 16. At that age he ought to put away small boyish things, and to put on the bashful awkwardness of semi-intelligent boyhood. At all events, he ought to know that his presence is not desired by young men who come to see his sister. We do not expect this amount of intelligence in the small boy, and it is often necessary to bribe him with candy or to persuade him with clubs before he will consent to treat his sister with common humanity; but the 16-year-old boy usually perceives when an area of courting, accompanied with gradually increasing pressure in the region of the waist and marked depression of the parlor gas, is about to set in, and thereupon discreetly, even it sneeringly, withdraws.—N. Y. Times.

VEGETINE

FOR

Chills, Shakes, Fever and Ague.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

DR. H. R. STEVENS:—
Dear Sir—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine has done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for Chills Shakes, Fever and Ague. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain, all of the time; the pain was so great he did nothing but cry. The doctors did not help him a particle, he could not lift his foot from the floor, he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the Louisville Courier-Journal, that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken eighteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health, walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to Chills. Whenever he feels one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine and feels the last of that Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect on the system like most of the medicines recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world. Respectfully,
MRS. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

VEGETINE

FOR

Dyspepsia, Nervousness, and General Debility.

BERNARDSTOWN, MASS., 1878.

We, the undersigned, having used Vegetine, take pleasure in recommending it to all those troubled with Humors of any kind, Dyspepsia, Nervousness or General Debility. It being the Great Blood Purifier. Sold by H. L. Crowell & Sons, who sell more of it than all other patent medicine put together. MRS L. F. PERKINS,
MRS H. W. SCOTT,
JOSEPHUS SLATE.

Vegetine is a great health restorer—composed exclusively of bark, roots and herbs. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it.

VEGETINE

FOR

Nervous Headache and Rheumatism.

CINCINNATI, O., April 9, 1877.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq:—
Dear Sir—I have used your Vegetine for Nervous Headache, and also for Rheumatism, and have found entire relief from both, and take great pleasure in recommending it to all who may be likewise afflicted. FRED. A. GOOD,
108 Mill St., Cinn.

Vegetine has restored thousands to health who had been long and painful sufferers.

VEGETINE

Druggists' Testimony.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—
Dear Sir—We have been selling your remedy, Vegetine, for about three years, and take pleasure in recommending it to our customers, as in no instance where a blood purifier would reach the case, has it ever failed to effect a cure, to our knowledge. It certainly is the ne plus ultra of renovators. Respectfully,
E. M. SHEPHERD & CO., Druggists,
Mt. Vernon, Ill.

Is acknowledged by all classes of people to be the best and most reliable blood purifier in the world.

Dr. V. CLARENCE PRICE

—HAS—

Visited Janesville EIGHTEEN YEARS.

HAS met with unparalleled success in the treatment of all

Chronic Diseases

—OF THE—

THROAT, LUNGS, HEART, STOMACH, LIVER.

Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c.

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for yourselves; it will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Color your eggs.

—Down with the dust.

—A new Council next Monday evening.

—What has become of the cow question?

—Hon. Charles H. Parker, of Beloit, is in the city to-day.

—The hour of service at Christ church to-morrow, is 11 o'clock.

—Mr. Fred Putnam has been on a visit to Chicago, and just retuned.

—Holy Week. Evening prayer and lecture at Trinity and Christ Episcopal churches this afternoon.

—A new and long needed plank sewer is being built on Main Street, from Fredendall's across to Hawes' corner.

—Mrs. St. John has resigned her position in the Court Street choir, though she will sing there next Sunday, as announced.

—Another move. Giles Fisher & Son have moved their grocery stock to the next store to the New York restaurant on Main street.

—The subject of the study of the Art Section of the Mutual Improvement Club to-morrow night will be "Leonarda de Vinci."

—W. Richardson, son of Rev. H. Stone Richardson, has gone to Arizona, expecting to enter into a law partnership in that new Territory.

—A. H. Main, the Deputy Collector of the U. S. Revenue, will visit Janesville next Wednesday to look after Uncle Sammy's stamps.

—Heimstreet, the druggist, invites all his lady friends and patrons to take a look at his display of flowers, bulbs, gold fishes &c. to-night at his opening.

—Mr. Nightingale desires through the Gazette to thank the friends for their sympathy shown on the occasion of the funeral of his stepson, John Brown.

—Mr. Ben Grove, who has been culturing his enviable basso voice in Chicago, returned yesterday for a brief visit, and will sing at Christ church next Sunday.

—City Clerk Burgess reports that his office is running all right, and that after he gets "Jerry" broke in, the two will make as lively a match team as ever stepped over the road.

—The ladies should remember that if they want to see "a perfect love of a bonnet," they should not miss Creighton's millinery opening to-night, at the Centennial store.

—The Hessian Band in which the citizens of Janesville took so much interest is now at Black River Falls, and purposes to soon return to Janesville and give one or more concerts here.

—The constant rumbling of the wheels and machinery in the adjoining mills and in the box factory is greatly annoying the employes of the post office. They don't like to hear the "wheels go round."

—There is talk of holding a union temperance meeting, next Sunday night, similar to that held last Sunday evening. Such a meeting will doubtless be of interest, as the weather prevented many from attending before.

—If you want furniture that is put together to stay, and is made to use as well as look at, take a look at Britton & Kimball's large stock. They have something to say to the readers of the Gazette, and find place in another column to say it. Read and profit thereby.

—The funeral of Michael Welch, whose death was announced in yesterday's Gazette, took place this afternoon under the auspices of St. Patrick's Total Abstinence and Benevolent Society, who under the lead of the band, followed the remains to their last resting place.

—Constable Comstock denies that he was the officer who made the clothes line thief disrobe and give up the ladies' finery which he had plundered. Comstock is a modest young fellow, and it is a shame to put him to the blush by connecting his name with any such scrape.

—"Barb" St. John, with whom many citizens of this place are well acquainted, sends us, from Ibaton, Kansas, some grass blades of this spring's growth, measuring two feet in length, which indicate that the season is well advanced in that State, and the meadows nearly ready for the scythe.

—W. Irving Bishop will be here next Monday and Tuesday evenings, and proposes to perform by human means all the manifestations of the most celebrated mediums of England and America. Those who are in any way interested should remember the dates. He has had crowded houses wherever he has appeared.

—There will probably be about a hundred Odd Fellows who will visit Whitewater on the 26th inst., the occasion being the celebration of the anniversary of the order in America. A large number of members from other places will also attend. The Janesville delegates failing to get satisfactory terms from the railroads, propose going by teams. They will take with them the Bower City Band.

—Dr. Judd's hired man carelessly hitched a horse behind the Doctor's new phaeton which was standing near the barn. The horse gave a pull, the phaeton began to roll down hill, the steed became frightened, the phaeton took a tumble, and a general muss ensued. The steed reached the bottom of the hill all right, but the phaeton had to visit a blacksmith and carriage shop before it could be restored to accustomed health.

—One of the teachers in the public schools of the city, has had time since the term ended, to figure over the extent of her work of looking over the examination papers of her scholars, who number over forty. The total shows that besides looking over 4300 words to see if any were misspelled, she was obliged to examine 7,733 answers to questions given. As the work is in addition to the work done in the school room, it may be a profitable tidbit of interest which those who think the teacher's life an easy one, would do well to think over.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 52 degrees above zero and at 2 o'clock at 72 degrees above. Showery. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 50 and 53 degrees above.

The indications are, warmer southeast to southwest winds; falling barometer; cloudy and rainy weather, possibly followed by cooler westerly winds, and rising barometer.

THE GREENBACKERS.

Few in Numbers but Fervid in Spirit They Gather to Organize.

They Express Their Determination to Reform the Money Market by Hard Work at the Ballot Box.

A greenback convention for the county, was called to meet at the Court House today noon, the call being for "all who are in favor of full legal tender money issued by the government; the suspension of national bank circulation, the payment of bonds, official salaries, pensions, and all other obligations in legal tender money according to the stipulations of the original contract."

In response to this call about a dozen straggled in but failed to get together until after 2 o'clock this afternoon. Among those present were: J. A. Sawin, editor of the Evansville Independent, C. H. Parker, Beloit, J. S. Conrad, Evansville, D. L. Mills, Evansville, Jesse Miles, Janesville, C. W. Stewart, Waukesha, John P. Corey, Center, E. J. Carpenter, Turtle, H. S. Wooster, Clinton, John Hackett, Beloit.

Mr. Charles H. Parker called the meeting to order, and was speedily made its Chairman. Mr. J. S. Conrad was chosen as Secretary.

Mr. Parker said that this was the first meeting of this kind outside of the old organization, ever held in this county. It was necessary that a financial reform should be instituted, and it was deemed expedient that a county organivation should be perfected under the colors of the National Greenback Party. The rain and other untoward circumstances had prevented as full an attendance as could be desired and yet there were enough present to start an organization whose influence would be felt.

Mr. David L. Mills said he deemed the financial question second to none that had arisen since the days of Bunker Hill. The financial oppression, which caused the country to be poverty-stricken and crowded with tramps, was a worse oppression than the slavery of the blacks. It had been brought about by the bankers of the country, under the national system. It was said that a party organized on a financial issue would cause a revolution. If so, the sooner such a revolution came, the better. He did not believe there would be any such result of organization, but the issue must be met. In closing he moved that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of presenting a system of organization and appropriate resolutions.

In accordance with this motion the Chairman appointed: D. L. Mills, E. J. Carpenter, J. A. Sawin, H. S. Wooster, and C. W. Stewart.

The Committee were still busy framing a platform and wording resolutions at time of going to press.

SLOW BUT SURE.

The Board of Education is in no Hurry but They Wisely Conclude to Retain Prof. Burton—The Other Business can Wait for a few Days.

The Board of Education met last evening. There was a large budget of business to be disposed of, but after a motion had been successfully carried to engage Prof. Burton for another year, as Superintendant, two of the members decided that they could remain no longer, and another being absent, adjournment was necessitated. The appointment of teachers and other important business will be therefore left until the next meeting Saturday night. In the meantime the school dames are kept seated on the ragged edge of dispair, and anxiously wondering whether their heads will be clipped off, and allowed to tumble unheeded into the waste basket, or whether they will still be on the pay-rolls. There seems to be no opposition to the retention of Prof. Burton. His past record has spoken largely in his behalf, and the present condition of the public schools is such that all seem satisfied with the manner in which they have been handled by him. He is a faithful and expesienced instructor, and is a thorough gentleman.

AROUND THE TABLE.

The subject of last evening's study at the Round Table was "National Characteristics as Manifested in Literature."

Rev. J. W. Sanderson read a paper showing the contrast between the peculiarities of the Irish and Scotch. The one was mercurial, brilliant, fitful, romantic and Catholic; the other, staid, thoughtful, conservative, dogmatic and Protestant.

Rev. T. P. Sawin sketched the growth of the French language and literature, which originated by a fusion of two dialects in the fifteenth century, and which was marked by clearness. Their scholars are feeble investigators but unequaled as expositors. There are great names in philosophy and science but few in poetry.

Prof. Van Cleve spoke of Italian literature, and drew a contrast between the early Roman and modern Italian, the former being a warrior, the latter an artist.

Mr. J. C. Metcalf closed the study with a well written paper on the origin and development of these national characteristics. He traced the effects of external influences in modifying government, laws, and customs and the reaction of these again upon the social life of the people, giving their peculiarities in all departments of their progress.

The subject of the next study May 1, will be "Fiction."

Quite as Sensitive.

The sense of smell of the American people is quite as sensitive as those of any country—and certainly, when this faculty is tutored, perfumes may be made in America as excellent as those which come from abroad. Judges of fine odors credit Dr. Price with nice taste in the compounding of his Unique Perfumes.

STILL AFTER THE STILL.

The Red Ribbonites Busy Decorating the Button-holes—Opposition to the Cause.—One Saloon Less.

The red ribbon movement seems to be gaining ground. The audience last evening was fully as large as any which have yet gathered within the walls. The interest manifested seems increasing, and there is little doubt but that the workers will reap an abundant harvest. Dr. McCollister gave one of his stirring addresses, last evening. Mayor Norcross spoke in a few earnest words in behalf of the movement Rev. Mr. Roberts also took part in the exercises. At the close a large number of new ones stepped forward, and exchanged their autographs for a bit of ribbon. To-night there will be another meeting at the same place, it having been decided to keep the ball rolling for an indefinite length of time. The church has been tendered free of rent for two weeks, and the expenses of lighting and caring for the same, buying ribbon and other necessary outlay are paid by contributions put into the plate which is passed around every evening.

The following Advisory Committee has been appointed to superintend the work in conjunction with Doctor McCollister: Mayor Norcross, Revs. Sawin, Clithero, Sanderson, Roberts, Wheeler, Jones, Messrs Dimmock, Crossett, Baldwin and Jones.

Messrs. Wingate, Kinney, and Follansbee have been selected as a committee to look after the music.

Opposition of course shows itself in many ways. A movement was inaugurased yesterday to induce a number of those who indulge in the cup to don red ribbons, so as to break down the distinction between cold waterites and the hot-ginites, and to bring the color into disgrace by having it appear at the bars. The movement made little headway though, as few, even of those opposed to the movement, cared to place themselves in such an inconsistent position, pretending one thing and doing another. Of course the old-timed attempt of ridicule, tried so often in other places has been already tried here. Horses and dogs have been occasionally honored with a ribbon, but thus far they have not disgraced it by appearing on the streets drunk, and to all appearances their conduct is consistent with their ribbon profession of temperance.

When Dr. McCollister prophesied the other night that there would be fewer saloons in Janesville when he left than when he came, many thought that it was a mere spurt of that apparent self-conceit which has been the subject of criticism, even among some who admire the Doctor in other respects. His prophecy, however, in this case has been somewhat verified. Last evening Patrick J. Flanigan, who has been keeping a saloon opposite the Opera house, stepped up to the table and signed his name to the pledge, and to-day his front doors are closed, and he is promenading the street with the red full in sight.

To-night the churches are invited to join in a union temperance prayer-meeting in the basement of the Baptist church, commencing at 7 o'clock and closing in time to allow all who desire to attend the meeting in the Congregational church.

Nature Demands a Tonic.

When the nerves are unstrung, the head aches, the appetite is poor or variable, the sleep disturbed, and a general depreciation of vital power is experienced. Such a state of things cannot long exist without the development of serious disease. The most active and genial invigorant known is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The absolute purity of its spirituous basis and botanic ingredients gives it a permanent claim to public confidence, and its surpassing medicinal value is admitted by medical men of distinction, by whom it is widely used in private practice. For fever and ague—both as a preventive and remedy,—dyspepsia, liver complaint, bilious remittent fever, constipation, choleraic complaints, flatulence, and all intestinal disorders, it is a thoroughly reliable remedy. It is the antifebrile specific par excellence of the malarial districts of this and other countries, where diseases born of miasma prevail, and as a general household remedy it is also universally esteemed. apr16deodw1w

An Astonishing Fact.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all druggists on the western continent.

A Pardonable Pride

Prompts most people to delay, by any laudable means that science affords, the evidences of physical decay. Who that is in perfect health would not match the bright eye, the active mind, and other appearances of youthful vigor, with the luxuriance, the rich color and beauty of youthful hair? Parker's Hair Balsam stands pre-eminent as an elegant hair dressing, and by its healthful action on the roots not only promotes a luxuriant growth of the young hair, but unfailingly restores gray or faded hair to the original youthful color, giving a soft, rich and lustrous appearance of great beauty. No other preparation so effectually removes dandruff or stops falling of the hair; its cooling and healing action entirely curing itching and humors of the scalp, and keeping the skin clean, white and healthy. It is perfectly harmless, exquisitely perfumed, and contains nothing that will soil the skin or gum the hair. It is not a dye, and is unequaled for excellence and purity. Buy a bottle from your druggist A. J. Robert's, Janesville, Wis., and test its merits.

The New York Bulletin, of Saturday, says: There are six steamers appointed to leave here to day for ports in Europe, and they all carry out their accustomed full cargoes. The shipments of grain swell up to an unusually heavy aggregate, there being over 250,000 bushels. A feature of the export trade is the large number of agricultural implements going abroad, most of them, it is understood, being intended for Germany. The Wilson line steamer alone takes out no less than 1,000 packages of mowers and reapers, in addition to 1,500 packages of hardware and general merchandise. Another feature is the quantity of live cattle going across, there being 450 sheep on one of the Anchor-line vessels, besides 34 horses. The National steamer has 47 horses on board, and the Wilson vessel 200 head of cattle. The names and destinations of the steamers are: City of Richmond and Helvetia, for Liverpool: Anchoria and Assyria, for Glasgow; Hindo, for Hull, and Hermann, for Bremen.

The first fair-sized lumber fleet of the season arrived in Chicago on Sunday and on Monday the sale-docks presented quite an animated appearance, although a large portion of the cargoes proceeded directly to the yard docks, having been sold to arrive. The offerings were chiefly made up of green joist and scantling, sales of which were made at $9 per 1,000 feet. The sales comprised several cargoes of piece stuff from Ludington at $9, among them being the schooners Gamecock and Mercury, and it was reported that one cargo was sold at $9.25. The cargo of the schooner Coral, from Duck Lake, consisting of 100,000 feet of coarse, piece stuff and 50,000 No 1 shingles, was sold at $8 50 for the former and $1 for the latter. A cargo of common and cull boards from Paulville brought $10 25. About two million Grand Haven A shingles, the cargo of the barge Apprentice Boy, were sold for $2 10, and other cargoes were sold at the same price.

SMITH & SON,
Merchant Tailors & Hatters.

COUNTY COURT, ROCK COUNTY—In the matter of the estate of John Brown deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Catharine Nightengale, representing that her said son late of the city of Janesville, in said county, died intestate on the 15th day of April, 1878, leaving property in said county, and praying that Clark E. Ranous may be appointed administrator of the estate of said deceased, it is ordered that said petition be heard before this court, at the office of the judge thereof, in the city of Janesville, in said county, on the 10th day of May next, at 10 o'clock a. m.

And it is further ordered, that notice of said petition and hearing be given by publishing a copy of this order for three successive weeks, once in each week, prior to said hearing, in the Janesville Gazette, a daily newspaper printed and published in the said city—Dated April 18th 1878.

AMOS P. PRICHARD, County Judge.

CHOICE FARMING LANDS!

IN MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA,

BY THE Winona & St. Peter Railroad Co.

The Winona & St. Peter Railroad Company is now offering for sale, at VERY LOW prices, its land grant lands along the line of its railroad in Southern Minnesota and Eastern Dakota, and will receive in payment therefor, at par, any of the Mortgage Bonds of said company.

These lands lie in the great wheat belt of the northwest, in a climate unsurpassed for healthfulness, and in a country which is being rapidly settled by a thriving and industrious people, composed to a large extent of farmers, from the eastern and the older portions of the northwestern States.

H. M. BURCHARD, Land Agent for sale of lands of said company, at MARSHALL, LYON COUNTY, MINNESOTA.

Geo. P. GOODWIN, Land Commissioner

General Office of Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, Chicago, Ill.

☞ To all persons requesting information, by mail or otherwise, Circulars and Maps will be sent free of cost by said Land Commissioner or said Land Agent. 31w6mnrm

MAGNOLIA STORE

Being desirous of changing my business and place of residence, I offer my STORE at Magnolia Corners for Sale; also my house and lot, convenient to the store. The lot contains about three acres, well covered with Fruit trees, etc., consisting of about 70 Apple trees, in bearing (this orchard has produced 200 bushels in one season), in very good condition; Cherry trees, Siberian and Russian Crabs, a half dozen Pear trees, very thrifty, Currants, Gooseberries, Raspberries, of different varieties, Strawberries and Grapes. I should prefer to sell the stock with the store. Will sell very cheap for cash, or on easy terms for good paper. Will sell store and stock alone if purchaser desires. It is a good point for country trade, but I have interests elsewhere that require my personal attention. J. F. HOWARD.
